Honoring the Teachers

A Tribute to Robert Mosbacher, Sr.

A corporate leader with a commitment and dedication to education.

On February 17, 2004,

Robert Mosbacher joined the Texas Regional Collaboratives for Excellence in Science Teaching "Honoring the Teachers" celebration, to recognize 27 Science Teacher Mentors of the Galveston County Regional Collaborative for their commitment to life-long learning and to excellence in science teaching and learning.

Thank you, Robert, for giving over three hours of your time to honor teachers! Your contribution to "building character through knowledge" in our schools is deeply appreciated.

Honoring the Teachers

We are proud of the contribution of corporate Texas to education!

Our appreciation and gratitude go to long-time Business Partner,
The SBC Foundation
for sponsoring the reception and all recognition plaques presented at the event.

"Today's classrooms hold our future employees, customers and community leaders," says Jan Newton, President, SBC-Texas. "That alone is sufficient reason to be an active partner in providing our teachers with the tools they need to make that future a bright one."

"SBC is a Texas-based company with employees in almost every community throughout the Lone Star state. It is only natural to partner with a quality organization that shares our reach and our concern for quality education. SBC is proud to work with Dr. Jbeily and the Texas Regional Collaboratives."

Jan Newton
President, SBC-Texas

Honoring the Teachers

Welcome to The Cynthia and George Mitchell Foundation

Cynthia and George Mitchell

On February 3, 2004, The Cynthia and George Mitchell Foundation joined in their support to the Texas Regional Collaboratives Program. A gift from the Foundation will enable the Texas Regional Collaboratives to strengthen their statewide services and more specifically, improve the science education opportunities for Galveston students.

Teachers of Science in Galveston will receive during 2003-2004 focused research-based professional development to help them engage students in meaningful, relevant, and exciting science learning experiences.
